British Victorian Jubilee Labels

by Michael Peach

No commemorative stamps were issued by Great Britain to honour Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee in 1897. The first British commemorative stamps were the 1924 issue marking the British Empire Exhibition. Canada had been more progressive, and in 1897 issued the Diamond Jubilee series, the first commemorative issue.

Confusion arose in Great Britain in 1897 when a series of labels were produced to mark the Diamond Jubilee, bearing the words Commemorative Stamp and Diamond Jubilee 1897. There was also a value in pence. The labels show four generations of the Royal Family, in line of succession. The lower values have Queen Victoria wearing a veil and small crown. The higher values show the Kings in waiting, the 4d Prince and Princess of Wales, later King Edward VII and Queen Alexandra, the 6d the Duke and Duchess of York, later King George V and Queen Mary and the 2d purple (not shown) the young Prince Edward, later Prince of Wales, King Edward VIII and then the Duke of Windsor. The other value in the series was a red 3d with the same design as the 4d label.

The labels are classified as cinderellas and were not valid for the payment of postage. They were lithographed on non-watermarked gummed white wove paper and perforated 14. It is not clear where they were printed. They were distributed by the London stamp dealers, W.S. Lincoln and Wallace Bros., later H. & A. Wallace.

The labels were often used for postage, causing an embarrassment to the Post Office. I have not seen any on cover, but I have not been on the look-out for such covers. They were often found affixed to a decorative page.

Interestingly the British Post Office produced a mini-sheet in 2000 to mark the Queen Mother's 100th birthday, with four generations of the Royal Family, the Queen Elizabeth, the Prince of Wales and Prince William. The Canadian 1935 George V Silver Jubilee issue besides the King and Queen featured the then line of succession, the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York and Princess Elizabeth. Was Canada Post a seer?
